

4

4 Sirius Range Hoods' newest model, the SU48, features heat sensors that automatically control cooking surface ventilation. Once a change in temperature is detected, the filter glides down from the stainless-steel canopy, activating the fan exhaust. It increases or decreases the blower speed with every two-degree temperature change. Manual controls, when utilized, will override the sensor functionality. Booth #6537